

ABSTRACT

A thrust ball bearing includes first and second circular ring shaped bearing disks arranged in spaced-apart disposition and moving eccentrically to one another so that bearing balls, arranged therebetween, roll on pertaining circular tracks. Both circular ring shaped bearing disks are made from a through-hardenable ferrous material to thereby permit realization of a particularly high fatigue strength.

Patent No. 3,440,000